

MissionWorks and MissionNext Merge to Expand Global Mission Mobilization Efforts

MISSION NEXT[®]

MissionWorks and MissionNext are pleased to announce that MissionNext is now a ministry of MissionWorks. Members from both organizations have worked together on this partnership believing we will be "better together and better than ever!"

This is a synergistic merger where each organization complements the other. By integrating MissionNext's matching capabilities with the extensive resources and training programs of MissionWorks, the combined entity will offer a more robust platform for individuals seeking to engage in mission work and for organizations aiming to recruit and support mission participants. We are excited for users of both platforms to experience the enhanced features and expanded opportunities resulting from this unification.

Our partnership fees and the services we provide will not change. Your next invoice will still have MissionNext on it, but you will see a new tagline that says, "A Ministry of MissionWorks." It will include a link to our new system that will process credit card payments.

If you'd like to pay by check, please send a copy of the invoice with your check to the new address in the top left corner of the invoice. Your payment receipts will come from a MissionWorks email address. Should you miss a payment receipt, please contact us as you normally would, and we will resend it.

We can't wait to share more with you! We will provide more information as it becomes available. We will continue serving our communities with current services and products, while looking forward to multiplication of ministry impact.

Check out the FAQs for more information about the merger. To learn more about each ministry, please visit MissionWorks.global or MissionNext.org.

Thank you for your partnership,

MissionWorks and MissionNext Team
